Dear Alliance Information Systems:

As you can imagine, we were quite skeptical when initially approached by your company. We thought we had a good handle on our cell phone costs and did not believe that you could save us an additional 15 - 40%. Needless to say, we have saved 30% on our wireless spending after using the allianceone service for only the past five months and now we can say that we truly do have control over our cell phone costs. The fact that we did not have to change phone numbers, our phones or service providers made the implementation of this service extremely simple.

We started using the allianceone service to save some money and quickly found how helpful the service was at simplifying the management of our wireless phones and other wireless devices. We were able to see all our wireless devices in one place despite using several carriers for our wireless services and the ability to extract data into a format suitable for processing with our accounting system has saved us many hours of work.

We've all been very impressed with both the allianceone service and your knowledgeable staff. I would not hesitate to recommend the allianceone service to any organization looking to reduce costs and improve their wireless visibility.

Sincerely,
